

Gareth Bowen on Why double standards and treating people different or not by the book always leads to the escalating spiral of all out war and the utter annihilation of all person kind.

Gareth Bowen on Why ultras vires democracies forgetting their remit and ignoring the fundamental principles of liberty, freedom and human rights who try to obfuscate or rewrite the book in a negative way always leads to people walking and that escalating spiral of all out war and the utter annihilation of all person kind.

Democracy and government is supposed to be the coming together of all people to seek solutions in improving the quality of life for everyone involved.

When they ignore people or groups or try to exclude them via censorship, or force they go against that remit of improving life and just sow the seeds of conflict and war which always comes back on them and destroys their own happiness and quality of life further down stream.

This is why it is in a persons self interest to stop fucking people over, and look to seeking solutions that help not only themselves out but other people as well.

Kindness,, respect a smile cost nothing and help you and other people out notwithstanding the risk of a smile that gets you into a conversation with a women that escalates into you getting on well, falling in love, having sex and then one of the parties walking leaving the other person so utterly crushed and hart broken for centuries that you never go there again, but you didn't need to let it get that far, all you had to do was stick to the funder-mental principles and refuse to bend to compromises that sell you and the human race down the river in full.

Balance, humility, respect and the ability to reason, listen and explain concepts things in a way that the other person can hopefully absorb quickly and easily in the minimum time frame.

Learn to tell the truth the whole truth early as if they are compatible they will hear you out, and if not you save yourself a lot of unnecessary hassle and time.

In dating this usually involves a women shouting and screaming trying to get you to submit, them storming off never speaking to you again, only to show up again later a few months down the line when they put it together and realise you were right all along, but only works if you don't chase, beg or try to get them back.

Same in legal circles, if your right your right, the falling for the old hurting someone's experiences trap and trying to console their feelings as you panic and back down unclear of your own mind always leads to trouble and sends the wrong message as they usually go on the attack.

That's not to say you can't factor in a new concept or logic or strategy which when reasoned out would be a better course to follow in improving the quality of your own life and everyone else's as well. Avoiding the onset of war is generally a good thing but that is usually done at the neighbourhood level or in school before people feel the need to walk, build their power hierarchies, armies and everything else as the tit for tat escalating counter accusations over what strategy is better in the long term for everyone's survival and happiness can get really stupid very fast.

Judges, corporations and politicians are expected to be able to reason everyone out and explain the reason why they are doing a particular course of action and be able to explain how they think that help everyone out, that gives people an opportunity to point out problems or things that have been over looked so they can be factored in and adjustments made to improve the quality of life for everyone more efficiently and the onuce should be on people needing to do less, not more.

If democracy and people had got their act together their would be no need for armies, the police the courts or almost any other profession, as that lot generally only seems to stem from the from the fact that some governments, corporations and individuals have been fucking over people over for centuries.

Those who try to assert their authority over others or ge people to do what they want via the whip, threats, reprisals, blackmail or torture who continue to chose to rule by fear just lead to their own destruction and their name being remembered by mud for all time.

Yes the strategy seems to work for some given the stupidity and brain washing of the masses and those who sell their fellow man out purely in the hope that any war or conflict doesn't catchup with them later and yet it does.

Take the British press and the onset of world war II, everyone ignoring the rise of fascism saying nothing and then one day everyone finds that they are the ones who are having bombs dropped on them, or them being shot, tortured or rounded up and killed whether it be in concentration camps or so called T 4 mental health wards as evil tightens it's grip and control.

Beware those who seek to disarm and silence people from being heard.

Anyone fighting to defend the rights and freedoms of humanity will always be able to explain why they have choosen a particular course of action and be able to cover all arguments and points raised.

Judges, police forces and psychologists who seek to deliberately misquote, to hide to censor explanations and refuse to cover arguments off, or explain the reasons why they think a different course of action are generally regarded as evil and the people responsible for the deaths, torture and suffering of all people at any time in present day and history.

For that reason alone they shouldn't be in charge of anything and people should be thought not to listen or follow their commands, even if some demonstrate a scary voice when annoyed.

If someone asks you to kill, hurt, maim or torture someone who doesn't consent to it you itgnore the order or take the person given the ultra vires command down immediately so they can no longer do any more harm.

Following an order that is wrong is a crime against humanity and puts the entire planet or your entire institution at risk as well as opens you up to being penalised, tortured, killed or other reprisals at a later date when the wheel turns and the people you we're fucking over come after you in full notwithstanding that generally leads to the continuation of war rather than the settlement of peace.

Most people just want an end to suffering, misery, famine and war therefore the earlier people change their ways and start being honest, explaining how their strategy improves the quality of all life.

One strategy to improve life is to use democracy but if some people or minorities are getting penalised or punished and the system refuses to remove those people abusing it's principles then the vote is not worth the paper it's printed on, that is why some always sought to look at other strategies such as tit for tat counter reprisals and yet that just gives evil an excuse to try and use security as an excuse for destroying more personal freedoms notwithstanding that loses them more of their own people and undermines their own position as almost everyone stops listening and walks.

A simple word, or explanation or example of why a course of action will most likely cause you a problem later on and has been demonstrated time and time again in history can be enough to avoid an inter planetary war assuming the principles and the reasons are understood.

One hoped that war memorials, and the mass raves from genocide and the lessons of the horrors of the T 4 wards and the reason why human rights treaties were signed and put in place would have been enough to teach people not to follow that path, and yet history repeats and the modern day press again repeat the errors of yesterday via censoring people and rather than clearing the air early and giving them press they shut up and walk, thus allowing more problems to build elsewhere and if problems are allowed to continue unattended more and more people die.

Way too many people in Britain have been reported dead or starved to death by a system that no longer cares as it's population has been brain washed to think for their own survival and yet if people are starving to death or going without a home, then there is more risk that they will get killed, robbed or hurt in the street, as if you didn't care about them, why should they care about you?

Laurance of arabia or the good Samaritan (going from memory) for example when the wheel turns, time moves on and the person you fucked over or helped is in a position to help or turn a blind eye to your own plight.

Memories are long, and I have witnessed Britain and the NHS torturing and doing medical experimentation on people in Britain, as I was one of the people they injected and used force against to inject with drugs I didn't need.

Purely to stop me doing anything like writing an essay or pointing their abuses out.

Therefore I know people do get killed and assassinated in that system. Dr Shipman, the angel of death serial killer in the states and various nurses that have admitted and been sentenced to having murdered in cold blood the people they were supposed to help and that is before you consider the possibility that some are actually trying to help and just fuck up like when they accidentally slip and cut a penis off in a circumcision are examples of why anyone with a brain avoids the NHS in it's entirety.

How can you be sure what is accidental or deliberate in a system like that given they have demonstrated the willingness to torture people a line I never thought Britain would cross and yet even after world war II and doing research people point out abuses in Kenya, Northern Ireland, Cyprus Ireland and elsewhere.

Hardly surprising everyone broke away and told Britain to go fuck itself. American war of independence for example, Braveheart the patriot and all those other last of the Mohican concepts discarded and ignored.

On 13/4/2017 I was showed up at a GP to see a Dr Steven Whitfield because I was required to in order for a DVLA driving licence to be renewed, the doctor said he didn't know what the words to the tick boxes meant, and refused to look them up or do a web search on what constituted that definition and he ticked them anyway purely on the grounds some other doctor had, and yet he was being paid for a medical opinion.

Not a good sign and generally evidence people like that should be disbarred. All people should be able to say how they formulated their conclusions and what evidence and reasons they used to justify it, and yet doctors, psychologists, courts and politicians aren't.

At no point have I ever seen an explanation saying why someone is a risk to be detained, they just refer to a word which they don't understand and hope that justifies it, it doesn't.

Britain is detaining people for political, religious and scientific knowledge, belief and curiosity.

I had hoped the signing of the Geneva convention had seen those horrors of yesterday gone by, and yet I find people in my area who one would have thought would have known better are and do commit those atrocities.

If they have stopped in the interim, I haven't been notified or told at the very least I know they still work on those wards.

Which generally indicates why your country is screwed.

I saw clip on you tube of a comedian saying Britain has no political prisoners at a charity event and it was dated around the time I was detained. The fact people still believe that crap is scary in the extreme.

All prisoners are political based on the simple concept that what constitutes a crime in democracy is generally deemed to what everyone else says is a crime. That in itself is a political point of view.

However someone people try to look beyond politics to logic, reason and common sense in order to establish what is just and fare. And that usually gets simplified o freewill and consent as any concept of trying to force your will on another who doesn't consent is generally regarded as wrong and a reason to come to their aid if they require it.

People, governments, countries and organisations who ignore consent and try to impose their will and authority on others via greater numbers like xerses from the film 300 generally just get told to go to hell, as people have the right to make their own decisions and live in peace.

Most people are open to suggestions and ideas which can help themselves and other people out, but a strategy or showing up with guns and using violence to threaten people does not win anyone over and generally means you have to watch your back for all eternity and I don't know about you but I always favoured being able to relax and feel safe in the place I am living.

King herrod in the bible, Joseph, Conan the barbarian and various other films in fiction and in reality generally highlight that those people who are fucking people over really aren't thinking very far ahead at all.

someone did relay a message once via clairaudience that someone was coming in to reinforce a position, however reincarnation and stories in the bible aside where kind Herrod tried to stop someone being reborn to fuck him over. I have no evidence to take it as fact, mealy a possibility and it doesn't change anything at this end either as people are free to make their own minds up.

Assuming you are covered because someone else says so, or reports what someone else is up to or is thinking doesn't necessarily make it so unless you verify for yourself and double check and then you either go by what they have given away or if they tend to do what they say.

Stories of American Indians [need to look the name up again] where prophets which were deemed fake because they were told someone would help and didn't are examples of why perhaps someone needed to be dispatched at that point to speak to that group to get confirmation in person or guarantees.

And even then force majeure and other problems get in the way so anyone assuming anyone is going to do or be in a position to show and bail your ass out is not recommended at all. At the very least you have your own skill set and any resources you have access to at this current time, any help beyond that is a bonus but not guaranteed.

Better to expect nothing and be surprised if it works, and or if others show, or help out elsewhere and remember some are so too faced better not to have them around.

Given the apparent rise of stupid people conditioned to vote and be subservient to serve evil out of personal fear I am not sure even that strategy works, as one generally assumes evil will over run a position while everyone looks away.

I would rather problems were avoided before the bad guy from pitch black or escape from sobibor shows up as being the guy who speaks up to tell evil to go fuck itself before getting shot, while useful to send the message to everyone else that they are screwed and really need to start thinking about what they are going to do, I'd have much rather they had not let that type of thing get established or get a foot hold in the first place and yet they voted trump in why?

None consensual Torture always alienates the people, causes people to break away and the introduction of war, the strategy has never worked and never will.

To win people over it is much better to do it in writing with logic, reason and example notwithstanding I have no issue with it being done in film, art or anything else as anything that broadens thinking and gets the point across is generally deemed a good thing notwithstanding some teaching concepts seem to work better on some people than others.

Langoudoc France with the cathars, witch burnings and other occurrences still resonate and point out that the very notion of anyone being subservient to anyone is wrong notwithstanding I am ok with information distribution networks that help spread knowledge and better suggestions of doing things to help more people out and improve the quality of life for all on and off earth.

[they were people on a space station in orbit last I checked and people so seem to be trying their best to escape this planet for freedom as well]

he who breaks his dependencies and need for others and reliant on less is generally deemed by me to have more skill and charisma than those went the other way, what do you want those resources for that your not using? If they can be used better by other people than perhaps you should consider letting others have them instead, thus improving the wealth gap, as if people have a home and the ability to feed themselves they are much less likely to cause you problems down stream.

Riots break out all the time because of the abuses of government, the courts, the police, the nhs and the system and yet still they try to control the air waves with propaganda which states it is not their fault, if people are rebelling and your in charge of keeping people happy, your the ones to blame for all the suffering and misery and problems that rippled throughout history because of your inability to listen, explain or think of anyone else apart from your own selfish arrogance and greed.

As we the people or at least myself, only do things because we choose to, and short term comprises of bowing to fear always back fire.

Better to be shot in the head standing up to a tyrant as in escape from sobibor then to humour or justify their crimes.

In the film divergent my view is when the ruler asks you to kill the unarmed person who isn't attacking you or anyone else at the time, and hands you the gun to do it on pain of your life or theirs, check to see if there is ammo in the clip, check to see if the safety is off then shoot the ruler giving you the ultra vires command who is abusing human rights and their remit for office in the head, no person or god or being has the right to give that order at all, and if he is justifying he is just passing an order on, tell them to go to hell and that that order is wrong and give them a lecture on why and how they are behaving like an unthinking slave.

When people gform armies it to protect themselves and other people they care about from someone who is seeking to enslave and destroy their life.

That means human rights the right to life and liberty is the essential to their remit as they are not formed to kill and enslave but to protect to help and to improve lives.

Anyone bombing civilians and taking life rather than defending it is breaking the law for want of a better word as they cease to be helping humanity at that point and instead become a problem for it.

So easy to turn off the path of helping people to go the other way, and yet perhaps there is hope that others can adjust their ways and start implementing strategies and tactics that get back to the remit of improving the quality of life for all life and all humanity.

And yet that is the dilema how to point out problems early so they are taken seriously and remove the risk whether by human incompetence or worse deliberate acts to safeguard the people who are still enjoying life and the futures and lives of all those who enjoy life on the prime material plane.

The fact the dali lama turned a blind eye to the expansion of the medial industry trying to brain washing and enslave the kids at a peace conference which feature lady gaga annoyed.

As people need to be taught to assess their own risks, no one should do anything, it is mealy a suggestion and people are expected to make their own god damn mind up and use common sense, the medical industry has demonstrated that it does medical experimentation on the people, look at them trialling the birth control pill on mental health patients in the 50;s or Germany's 1933 sterilisation program and that is before you consider all the vaccination fuck up that lead to lives being destroyed.

zero confidence in their ability to do anything, they rarely if ever explain how they formulated conclusions, always demonstrate bullshit and try to over complicate everything done.

No one has the right to impose their will on another who doesn't consent to it. No one has the right to dictate or enforce on another what is deemed good for them, they have a brain they are entitled to use it and that is why I never understood the logic in drugs war.

Ingesting a substance no matter how foolhardy when risk of death is considered, is a matter of choice anyone arguing they needed them people for work really should have shut up and done the job themselves, learn to grow your own food and learn to defend yourself, as the person fighting for the principle of personal choice when it doesn't impact on anyone else is in the right.

If you respected those rights you wouldn't need to be funding the armies you hide behind, as no one would care. Your police and courts, and lawyers would be redundant jobs as well as accountancy as it would all be transparent and people would know where they stood with the tax system and everything else.

And your propaganda and brain washing of the people doesn't work on me, as I know your detaining people for political belief if people are lashing out in what your all terrorists acts it because they are frustrated with how the system that you are abusing no longer works for the people, that is because your police forces and other officials are using one law or going one way for some people and other laws or another way for other people, you are applying double standards there is no justice in any of you, your all unfit for office and you've bullshitted me and the people way too much throughout life.

My deceleration of independence in 2009 was merely a futile desperate gesture to remind people that we work together because we want to, we aren't slaves and that justice is supposed to be applied equally regardless of the numbers involved. One person has the same rights and protection in law as does another regardless of how many troops they employ or nukes they own.

Double standards all round instead of helping people your government has turned to enslaving, brain washing and torturing people and that doesn't help them out and it certainly doesn't help you out if and when they get their act together and you go down.

look at saddam husain and gadaffi and what makes you think if you do live to old age, that your going to be safe when you cross over to the next plane of existence? Or if you get dropped back into physical form again in some god forsaken country you could have helped, via demonstrating good leadership and good logic that helped through example improve yours and everyone else's lives.

Turning your back on people and ignoring them, stupid mistake.

Too much hypocrisy in government, too little sense no long term strategy as they focus on their own petty position at the expense of other peoples which in turn just means they get wiped off the map by what was their own side until they compromised their integrity, and lied or demonstrate double standards or just well focused on person greed rather than the remit of office which was helping all people out.

Police forces that say were not helping you or writing complaints up because we don't like your politics generally are considered proof that the system is spiralling to war, and that those forces are responsible for all wars an earth and destruction of the planet.

That is why it is in the public interest to either force them to treat all people equally and go by the book under the understanding that safeguards the system, or fire all their asses or come up with an alternative as using public money to fund corporations or institutions which are generating more problems and more misery than they solve is not a good move at all.

It is in the public interest for everyone to have a place to live which they enjoy and feel happy in, and for all to be able to eat and enjoy what life has to offer as not doing that always leads to those stressful interludes that reoccur way too much in the history books which I myself and think many others would have avoided, as I know there were better things I wanted to be doing with my time.

However that plan went out the window, so yeah whatever there.

So through your own incompetence you have chosen war instead of good sex, love and erotic pleasure.

Good for you, I will make the necessary adjustments and when the time is right come and kick your ass around the playground floor assuming someone else doesn't before as I so wanted to have fun this time around and all time, you assholes you all.

Meanwhile adieu and auvoir for now.

What am I trying to do or achieve with this again?

Whatever, Think, look ahead and do unto others as you'd have them do unto you and stop being hippo critical in life as the more you lie and each time you do something which you lecture against or try to advise others to do, the worse and more damage you do to yourself.

If in doubt shut the fuck up and leave people alone.

Always good to quote your sources and check your facts or qualify it as someone said this to cover your ass.

Facts are rarely if ever facts more a case of we believe this because of this., please state what was done, or what you witnessed to make you come to that belief set as it generally saves time effort and energy elsewhere.

People using torture and force in order to silence who people who were able to formulate their own conclusions from their own experiments in an effort to safeguard their own paycheck and their own propaganda machine will find that it will come back on them harder the longer and more they abuse those rights because it doesn't change the fact that they are complete and utter scum.

Mental health and the entire medical industry were warned centuries ago that they are only tolerated if they help and safeguards were suggested like the Hippocratic oath to stop them all doctors being rounded up and killed and yet they are flagrantly annoying that advice even though the reasons for pointed out have been pointed out loads of time.

They have sown the seeds of their own destruction and will not and never will be tolerated here, their qualifications are anemic in their entirety and we no longer respect anyone else's recommendation at all unless we look and given them the benefit of the doubt which could always be overturned if new evidence comes to light.

You destroyed Britain, and you destroyed the world and we needed to be in Europe to stop a war notwithstanding stop seems to mean slow as for some reasons people stopped explaining the reasons or how to do things and people forgot what was discovered and already known much like the dark ages, and other periods of history people turn to evil again.

Is this settling the scores of the last life? Or is everyone else getting off on conflict and war?

The concept of academic doctors getting off on destroying humanity, who have thought it, their entire profession and NHS complete and utter scum.

Now if you excuse me I think I will factor some time in to watch the film Amen or Eloise or do some of the other tasks I need to do, least I take a break and come back and add more to this essay

The reason and logic to write it up was in my head and then I came to the computer and came to recapturing it, to do it justice seems to escape me at this current time as it sounded really good when thinking about it but the thoughts tend to replace the previous thoughts and well writing it up in physical form, so sucks if necessary at all.

which it shouldn't be though I thought trying to write some stuff up would help, bit presumptuous mind.

People who look to control and limit other people, bad news. People who help others expand their own horizons thinking and ability and demonstrate ability at improving quality of life much better as the democratic remit is to improve quality of life efficiently and pro-actively thus avoiding the slide by countries, religions and organisations into war.

Avoid saying no to people, look to ways to factor them in, to help them achieve what they wanted or ways to use their skill set to help you and them out in turn.

People in positions of power who stopped wanting to listen to the people, hear people out really shouldn't be in those positions at all, as they should hear them out and be able to point out and explain everything they missed or didn't consider to justify the reason for them being in that position to begin with.

All I've seen lately is a load of stropy people who keep falling to intimidation, scaremongering bribery lies and fear to try and maintain their positions and keep their neck out of a noose.

Way too many 'suicides' reported in the criminal justice system.

Given torture and scaremongering has been used for people to plead guilty in the justice system, no conviction is worth the paper or computer it's printed on, and as such is grounds for overturning any government saying people shouldn't be able to overturn a conviction as Britain does for having pleaded guilty is generally indicative of a corrupt nation that has problems at its core.

As people pleading guilty to things they shouldn't be out of fear or brain washing at someone manipulating against their best interests is generally deemed a very good reason to perhaps overturn all convictions the system ever did.

So much bad legal advice and lawyers paid by the system to shut people up rather than arguing to their best of the ability and pointing things out, psychologists, lawyers, the NHS sold the people out a long, long time ago and I have no idea why.

Not that it matters doesn't change the fact and knowledge that they do. Ignorance is bliss and so much for the romantic comedy angle at all and it's always interesting how certain groups and subsets of the population got conditioned and groomed into believing bullshit and allowed themselves to be herded like sheep into T 4 wards, concentration camps and well death perhaps in the trenches of world war one, rwanda or elsewhere as I reflect on all the abuses and genocide of humanity, and go like anything I say is ever going to make a difference with mad man intent on the utter destruction, annihilation and the grooming of person kind into stupidity for life.

Sheriff of Nottingham, something vexes thee?

Disclaimer: Essay still at draft stage and still needs to be sense check by me at some other point in time 17/4/2017 as that would involve me having to leave it alone and reread it and change, adjust and add everything i've missed.

Way too many occasions where s word gets missed or another word replaced by internalise and what you think you have written isn't what you intended at all as some replaces or skipped words can switch context around or leave holes that are exploited by other people with intent to cause problems elsewhere perhaps at a later point in time or just make it look like gobbledygook if your brain switches synch.

That means think about things, and point issues out in order to help improve things if you think it will help , necessary and worth the time. That is obviously unpaid and there is only so much time I want to devote to this type of thing.

